Yes, Apple confirmed on November 23 that its four-day shopping event will return this year. The four-day event started at 12 p.m. on November 27, and will end at 11:59 p.m. on November 30, a.m. Cyber Monday). Apple customers will receive a gift card worth up to £120/$150/AUD$210 with select purchases. Use this deal over at the Apple dedicated Black Friday Shopping Event page. The catch, unfortunately, is that its latest products are not included, such as the iPhone 12 range, or the new 10.2in 8th gen iPad or Apple Watch 6. You'll be happy to hear that you'll find Apple products available at large discounts from third-party retailers in the UK and US on Black Friday, so Apple gift cards aren't the only option. Should I wait for Cyber Monday? Black Friday is up and gone, but sales no longer last just one day. Retailers have started to start doing business earlier and earlier and continue to do so in December. If you see a good deal, chances are the price won't go any lower. Our advice is clear: if you see a good deal, don't wait. When is Black Friday 2020? Black Friday always falls the day after U.S. Thanksgiving. This year the date is November 27. Although the event itself falls into the tail-end of the month, discounts and deals began rolling well before. Recent years have shown that Black Friday is no longer a singulin event, but all the time, and Amazon's launch of its Early Black Friday Deals event in late October highlights just that. This is good news for buyers for a couple of reasons. First off, it prevents having to wait until November and then the inevitable frenzy of a limited stock for a separate day or week. Secondly, in the post-coronavirus world, pacing deals in more than several weeks instead of days will no doubt help prevent supply overload. It also allows Apple shoppers to explore Apple's offerings from other retailers than just the promotion of Apple's Black Friday, which is rather limited. Amazon often has a mighty array of Black Friday Apple deals, while others worth checking out include Currys PC World and Carphone Warehouse (see our with all the sales above). What is Black Friday? On Black Friday, retailers are offering huge discounts to shoppers before the holiday season. All this The US is out on the day after Thanksgiving, but in recent years it's really pulled off around the world, including here in the UK. The latest trend is Cyber Monday, which arose because it tends to be the busiest day of the year for online shopping. Cyber Monday always falls on Monday after Black Friday. Friday.
